

McAfee AV Engine 5400 Released

PhilR 141 posts since

May 21, 2009 Engine 5400 is out now, folks, from

http://www.mcafee.com/apps/downloads/security_updates/engines.asp?region=us&segment=enterprise

New Linux (etc) command line scanners are available from the enterprise downloads portal (grant number required)

NEW FEATURES

- It's faster than before : We've listened to our customers who asked for a faster Engine and it delivers superior performance to current McAfee Anti-Virus products on all supported platforms.
- Improved detection of existing, new and potential threats which increases the depth and breadth of the protection we provide.
- Delivered in a engine for all supported platforms
 - ~ Enhanced support for Adobe Flash (.swf) file format
 - ~ Improved File Decomposition, helping us to detect more threats. Including enhanced support for the Nullsoft Installer file format.
- 100% drop-in compatibility with existing McAfee Anti-Virus products and DAT files. It's easy to upgrade; just update your Scanning Engine through ePolicy Orchestrator (ePO) and you're protected. No worrying about compatibility.
- We have digitally signed the engine to allow its origin and integrity to be checked.(Windows Only)

jcoleman1980 3 posts since

Nov 4, 2009 1. Re: McAfee AV Engine 5400 Released Nov 4, 2009 8:04 AM

McAfee AV Engine 5400 Released

Today i got a message on my screen saying that McAfee did a critical update. After it was completed the whole layout on my Total protection for business changed.Is this normal?

ulyses31 379 posts since

May 23, 2007 2. Re: McAfee AV Engine 5400 Released Nov 10, 2009 2:24 AM in response to: jcoleman1980

That's because you have been upgraded from Total Protection 4.5 to the new 5.0 version